The Vision

To be the Ultimate Motivation Hub in South Africa and Beyond.

The Mission

Our daily mission is to advocate the importance of continuous motivation and personal development for the purpose of achieving greater result on a personal and business capacity.

Our Source

The Motivation Company team is governed by the belief that a conscious journey of personal growth is the foundation for great leadership. It is also our belief that motivation is a spiritual vehicle which keeps one on track in the journey of personal growth.

Our team is guided by the following values:

Practicality: TMC empowers its audiences with practical tools which are simple yet effective.

Sustainability: To keep the motivation tank full it must be refilled regularly. One of TMC tools encourages daily evaluation of a person's attitude at certain times of the day in a space of a minute.

Measurability: Key to our success is our obsession with measuring effectiveness of our talks, facilitation of team buildings or any of our consulting services.

Psychologically Sound Approach: TMC uses professional psychologists in development of various products.

Spiritually Sound Motivation: We recognise spiritual depth is invaluable to achieving high level impact of motivation.

Smile: TMC holds the importance of humour and the culture of smiling in high regard.

Founder's Profile

Hector Mathabe

Hector Mathabe started the first on-campus black radio station while studying for a Public Administration diploma at the Tshwane University of Technology in 1993 (TUT), then known as Technikon Northern Transvaal. He also later obtained a certificate in Business Psychology and Human Behaviour from the University of South Africa.

When he left campus with a diploma to his name, he entered the commercial radio industry, starting out as a radio presenter for the now defunct Radio Bop and later moving onto Kaya FM. After a career spanning 14 years in the professional speaking industry, Hector's experience in delivering to clients has been tried, tested and approved. He also worked as a freelance facilitator for Business Presentation Skills, facilitating on programmes such as Presentation Skills and Excellence in Customer Service.

While working as a radio presenter Hector realised that he had a very strong leaning towards presenting what he calls "motivational radio". In time he came to be known by his loyal listeners as some who delivered 'life sentences' to them – meaning that it would often take just one phrase or sentence that he would say while engaging with his audience and that sentence would be the catalyst towards the listener discovering and pursuing their purpose.

Under the mentorship of the renowned Dr David Molapo, Hector entered the professional speaking and motivation industry when he left radio in 1999 to work for the I Can Foundation. Within months he branched out on his own and started his own company, Marang Consulting, which was re-named and re-branded as The Motivation Company in 2009. His company offers a full range of personal development and presentation services, namely motivation, teambuilding, programme directing, strategic planning with a corporate social investment (CSI) wing focused on taking motivation to the often deprived rural and peri-urban schools.
